

WidePoint's ORC Subsidiary Joins Lockheed Martin-Led TWIC Team

ORC Will Provide Certificate Manufacturing and Management Services for TSA's Transportation Worker Identification Credential (TWIC) Program

Friday, November 09, 2007

FAIRFAX, Va. -- Operational Research Consultants, Inc. (ORC), a wholly owned subsidiary of WidePoint Corporation (AMEX: WYY), today announced that it will support Lockheed Martin on the Transportation Security Administration (TSA)'s Transportation Worker Identification Credential (TWIC) program. To further secure the nation's transportation system, the TWIC program involves the rapid, nationwide deployment of biometric identification credentials to maritime workers.

The TWIC credential will enhance port security by requiring all workers with unescorted access to secure areas of vessels and maritime facilities to complete a security threat assessment successfully and carry a biometric credential.

"ORC is pleased that Lockheed Martin has selected ORC to support this very important initiative," said Daniel E. Turissini, CEO of ORC. "We're proud that our PIVotal ID© technology will serve such an integral task in securing our country's critical transportation infrastructure."
