WidePoint CTO Daniel Turissini to Speak at 2010 Smart Security Conference

WASHINGTON, May 21, 2010 /PRNewswire -- WidePoint Corporation (NYSE Amex: WYY), a specialist in wireless mobility management and cybersecurity solutions, announced today that CTO Daniel Turissini will be speaking at the 2010 Smart Security Conference on May 25th 2010 at 10:00AM.

WidePoint and its wholly owned subsidiary Operational Research Consultants (“ORC”) are co-sponsors of the conference to be held in Arlington, VA on May 24 and 25, 2010. The Conference will feature two days of panels and speakers comprised of government and industry leading authorities on topics that impact security, particularly as they relate to homeland security and defense revolving around how to maximize resiliency to help protect our airports, ports, harbors and critical infrastructure while still allowing for the efficient flow of commerce and social activities.

Mr. Turissini will speak on the importance of Federated identity in the effective deployment of CyberSecurity measures and other critical security issues.

Attending the Conference along with Mr. Turissini will be Christine Robinson of Christine Robinson & Associates, LLC.

Christine Robinson’s and Daniel Turissini’s soon-to-be-published paper on “Transforming Security through Enterprise Architecture (“EA”) and Business Process Management (“BPM”),” will be featured in the “2010 BPM & Workflow Handbook.” This paper challenges traditional thinking with a highly integrated approach to security virtually new to government and industry.

Mr. Turissini and Ms. Robinson’s unique combination of expertise in enterprise architecture, BPM, and security, results in readily understandable and implementable means by which to truly transform security. The authors tackle some of the world’s largest information sharing environments to include the Next Generation U.S. Airspace, energy, and health care areas, discussing the nuances of each and where their approach can be of significant benefit.
